Lean Six Sigma Certification

Overview

Lean Six Sigma training courses deliver a broad range of tools and techniques in a classroom environment. Six Sigma Certification is a way of demonstrating that you understand, and are able to apply, the Lean Six Sigma toolkit to deliver significant improvements in real life processes.

Achieving Six Sigma Certification with QSB provides you with Six Sigma accreditation from a respected worldwide authority. Our Six Sigma Certification events are held on a regular basis, and allow you to choose when you are ready to apply for Certification. Don't forget that our public training course fees include one application for Certification.

Who should attend?

- If you have trained as a Green Belt or Black Belt with QSB Consulting... then your course fee includes one Certification application. It's important to capitalise on this opportunity and to work towards converting your training into Certification, since employers are placing increasing emphasis on applicants with demonstrated Six Sigma expertise, and Certification with QSB helps to demonstrate this. Typically, delegates apply for Certification between 3-9 months after completing their training.
- If you've trained as a Green Belt or Black Belt with another training provider... then our Certification is a way of qualifying your understanding level. It might be that your original training provider did not offer Certification, in which case achieving Certification with QSB will help to convert your training investment into recognisable value for future employers.

Certification Fees

- 1 day Certification Assessment process
- £ 400.00 / delegate / application (First application free for QSB Green/Black Belts)
- All bookings are subject to QSBs' Public Training Terms and Conditions, available at www.publicsixsigmatraining.co.uk/trainingterms.

The Certification Process:

The diagram below shows the overall process for Lean Six Sigma Certification with QSB Consulting.

As shown, Green Belt or Black Belt training provides the building block, upon with Certification is based. The Certification process itself consists of a one day event at which applicants are assessed through a written exam and practical presentation, explained in more detail below.

Stage 2: Exam

Our Certification exams are designed to test your technical and theoretical understanding of the Lean Six Sigma toolkit. They are based upon a multiple choice model, with options for written answers. The exam last for 2 hours.

Stage 3: Presentation

The final phase of our Certification process provides you with the opportunity to demonstrate your practical application of Lean Six Sigma techniques to real processes back in your organisation. You will be asked to deliver project presentations (1 for Green Belt and 2 for Black Belt), followed by a questions and answers with our consultant trainers.

Based upon your performance in the exam and presentation phases, you will receive your Green or Black Belt Six Sigma Certification with QSB Consulting.
